

Kleindienst says Hoffa plan denied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said Friday that James R. Hoffa's lawyer proposed a deal under which the former Teamsters president could return to union activities if he won Hanoi's release of some American prisoners of war.

Kleindienst said the deal was dismissed by Deputy Attorney General Ralph Erickson during an Aug. 28 meeting with Hoffa's lawyer, William L. Taub.

On Thursday, 10 days later, Hoffa called off plans to visit the North Vietnamese capital, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers simultaneously cancelled a special validation of his passport for travel to Hanoi.

But Taub, Hoffa's lawyer, denied Kleindienst's allegation and said Hoffa might go to Hanoi without official government permission.

"He has a passport and official permission to go and had a right to go until yesterday's squeeze play took place, Taub said.

"As soon as these matters are cleared up he will try to go with the hope of some success in undertaking what he wanted to go for in the first place—being some instrument for the return of the POWs. This was the deal—the deal with Hanoi—to bring the POWs back," Taub said.

Referring to Kleindienst's allegation, Taub said: "The only matters ever discussed at any time were relative to Mr. Hoffa's proposed trip and the hope and the degree of success for the return of the POWs."

Taub said the proposal from the trip was sent in bound volumes to both presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and to President Nixon.

Taub said Hoffa "knew of the affection many labor leaders in Europe have for him and felt he might have some success in obtaining the release of some POWs in North Vietnam."

Hoffa aid in a telephone interview in Detroit, "I never heard of that. That's a brand new one on me. I don't understand."

Referring to the alleged proposed deal and his difficulties in traveling to Hanoi, Hoffa said: "I don't think that has a thing to do with it. It's my money, my time, there's nobody else going. Taub met with Kleindienst, I think, a week ago Monday (Aug. 28). That meeting, as far as I know, was just to secure my passport and permission to travel. Taub never discussed it with me."

Kleindienst reminded Taub in his letter that the lawyer, unable to see Kleindienst, had met with Erickson.

Later, he said, "Mr. Erickson advised me that you presented him with a proposal whereby the condition imposed in connection with the commutation of Mr. Hoffa's sentence would be removed if Mr. Hoffa were to visit Hanoi and obtain the release of some prisoners.

"Mr. Erickson advised you (Taub) that he had no authority to consider any such proposal and that if Mr. Hoffa were to undertake any such venture he would have to do so on his own initiative," Kleindienst wrote.

Threats of terrorism spreading

BONN (UPI)—Threats of Arab terrorism and sabotage in the aftermath of the Munich Olympics tragedy spread from West Germany to several neighboring nations Friday and German security officials said all warnings were being treated with "utmost seriousness."

About 500 Austrian police stood guard on an international oil pipeline following a tip that Arab terrorists might try to blow it up, police in Klagenfurt, Austria said. The pipeline carries Middle East crude oil from the Italian port of Trieste, site of a fire last month which the Arab guerrilla organization Black September claimed it set, to refineries at Ingolstadt, West Germany and Vienna.

The Black September group claimed responsibility for the bloody attack on the Israeli Olympic team Tuesday, which ended in the deaths of 11 Israelis, 5 Arab terrorists and a West German policeman.

Border police at the Denmark frontier warned Danish police they were tipped to possible Arab guerrilla presence in Copenhagen. They asked Danish police to watch out for a car in which two Arab men and two Arab women were believed to be travelling.

Police said reports indicated one of the women might be Leila Khaled, who took part in an abortive hijack of an Israeli El Al airliner over the English Channel.

Swiss police took special security precautions after receiving tips from Britain and West Germany that Arab terrorists might try to blow up a gasoline storage depot in Switzerland. Extra guards were posted and floodlights turned on at depots and refineries at the Rhine River port city of Basel.

At Rome's Leonardo Da Vinci International airport, police stood guard over 14 Arabs during their wait for connecting flights to Jordan, Tunisia, Algeria and Syria following their expulsion from West Germany as undesirable aliens.

In Munich, where the situation was particularly tense, spokesman Wolfgang Kupfahl of the Bavarian Interior Ministry said "every necessary precaution" has been taken to guard Jewish community offices and other potential targets against Arab attacks.

"Police have received many telephoned threats of further attacks," he said. "Of course many calls may be from unbalanced persons. But we are treating them all with the utmost seriousness."

Arab foreign minister replaced

CAIRO (UPI)—President Anwar Sadat Friday relieved Murad Ghalib of his post as foreign minister and named veteran diplomat Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat to succeed him in a cabinet reshuffle, the semi-official Egyptian Middle East News Agency said.

Zayyat had been the government's official spokesman as Minister of State for Information. He had served previously as Egyptian ambassador to the United Nations.

The news agency said Sadat named former foreign minister Ghalib, who became foreign minister in January, 1972, as Ambassador at the Foreign Ministry.

(Diplomatic sources in London told UPI correspondent K.C. Thaler the Munich massacre of 11 Israelis by Arab guerrillas in Munich had dealt a heavy blow to Egypt's plans for a diplomatic offensive in West Europe to gain support for the Arab cause against Israel in the forthcoming U.N. General Assembly debate.)

Israel officer says, 'hope they got message'

United Press International Israel struck back with vengeful fury Friday for the slaying of its 11 Olympians in Munich, sending waves of warplanes deep into Syria and Lebanon in bomb, rocket and strafing attacks it said killed or wounded scores of Arab guerrillas. One of the raids hit within four miles of Damascus.

"I hope they got the message," said a senior Israeli officer after scores of fighterbombers finished their lightning, 16-minute strikes against seven guerrilla targets in Syria and three in Lebanon. Beirut dispatches said the raids were the deepest ever flown into Lebanon and Syria by the Israelis.

In New York, Lebanon complained to the U.N. Security Council that 24 Israeli planes attacked three villages, killing 12 civilians including 10 children. The complaint was made in a letter to Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua, president of the Council for September.

Later, the Israeli command said, Israeli planes returned to the skies over Lebanon for a second series of divebombing raids SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan disclosed plans for an income tax cut Friday and dropped a potential bombshell: He has ordered a study of possibly merging some counties, cities and other local governments.

"We just believe the time has come," Reagan said, "to review the entire governmental structure in California and see if there isn't a way to streamline and eliminate duplication."

California's 58 counties have remained virtually the same since 1910 when the newest, Imperial, was formed. Since then, rather than mergers, California governments have proliferated into a maze of 400 cities and more than 4,000 other entities, ranging from school to mosquito abatement districts.

Olympic superswimmer Mark Spitz sat at the head table as Reagan announced his plans to 700 California business and agriculture leaders at an annual breakfast held in conjunction with the state fair.

"Speaking as a father of a 14-year-old son, when today it's so difficult to find the kind of hero you want for a son, I thank you for being that kind of hero," Reagan, a former lifeguard, told the winner of seven gold medals.

There is no way of telling, Reagan and his top aides said, how big a state income tax cut Californians will receive if the legislature goes along with the governor's plan.

Reagan said he will propose an across-the-board, one-year only reduction in the state income tax if the legislature again fails to pass a property tax relief program when it meets in November.

Reagan said this will be possible because of a surplus in state funds accumulated by "persistent penny-pinching" and welfare reforms.

The precise amount of surplus will not be known until later this month, the governor said, but recent estimates have placed it at more than $450 million. In 1969, Californians were granted a 10 per cent across-the-board income tax cut when there was a $309 million surplus.

The current surplus was to have been used for property tax relief.

"I would still like to reduce the homeowners' burden," Reagan said, "and I am going to continue to try to do this. But I will assure you right now that if we continue to be obstructed in this effort I am going to ask the legislature to reduce state taxes, preferably the income tax with a cut across the board."

Hearing set for offstreet parking

A public hearing will be held Monday by Lompoc Planning Commission on the proposed modernization of the city's offstreet parking ordinance.

The proposals would relax the requirements slightly for assembly halls and churches; stiffen them slightly for single family residences and restaurants; and provide for a percentage of commercial stalls to be smaller sized for compact cars.

In the latter case, the size could be reduced from the standard nine by 20 feet to seven by 17 feet.

The proposals would require two spaces within a garage or a carport for single family residences instead of the present requirement of one covered and one uncovered space.

The proposals would vary the requirement for assembly halls and churches from the present one space for each 25 square feet of floor area to one space for each 35 square feet.

Space requirements would be reduced for apartments having two bedrooms or less, but held to the present two spaces for three bedroom units.

In other action the commissioners are expected to consider the following:

—The request of James Patrick Clifford to manufacture leather goods in his home at 520 N. Lupine St.

End war language dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate conferees dropped end-the-war language from a compromise $20.9 billion military procurement bill Friday, dimming the chances this year that Congress might order withdrawal from Vietnam against President Nixon's will.

Eliminated from the bill was a provision the Senate attached by a 49-47 vote Aug. 2, cutting off all funds for the war within four months of enactment, subject to release of American prisoners and safe withdrawal of U.S. troops.

House negotiators, adamant in their resistance to any antiwar language in the measure, defeated a move by Senate conferees led by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., to substitute a provision pegging a four-month withdrawal to a ceasefire as well as a prisoner release—close to the terms Nixon has offered without success to the Communists.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House conferees, insisted that new end-the-war language was not necessary. He pointed to Congress' nonbinding requests in legislation approved last year for the President to set a withdrawal date after a ceasefire has been agreed on.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield was considered sure to attempt to revive the forced withdrawal campaign by tacking yet another end-the-war amendment to new legislation—most likely the defense appropriations bill awaiting House and Senate action.

But in view of House opposition—it defeated similar legislation in late June by a vote of 244 to 152—Mansfield's crusade appeared to be an exercise in futility at a time when Congress is struggling to adjourn early for the elections.

Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott served notice they would file a cloture petition next week to cut off further debate if "there is no movement" by the Senate to approve the interim five-year agreement by the United States and the Soviet Union to limit strategic offensive weapons.

The Jackson amendment has thrown the Senate into a deadlock over the Houseapproved interim agreement, one of the last major items standing in the way of adjournment.

News in brief

Kennedy plan killed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Friday killed an attempt by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to force President Nixon into disclosing his tax reform proposals before the elections.

The Kennedy effort, opposed by Republicans and many Democrats, was labeled "pure, partisan politics," by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Kennedy made his move with an amendment to the revenue sharing bill which would have required Nixon to submit a preliminary tax reform plan by Oct. 31 and a final plan by March 31.

'Conspiracy of silence'

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern said Friday the Nixon administration had joined in a "conspiracy of silence" with giant grain exporters to cheat farmers out of a share of the profits of wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

The Democratic presidential nominee, stumping through the nation's breadbasket, said there were indications the administration helped gyp farmers by permitting big grain exporters access to "inside information" which helped them realize windfall profits.

He said the wheat deal "has a bad smell" and he demanded a full investigation of the transaction.

South Viet troops capture bunkers

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese paratroopers, moving behind U.S. B52 bomber strikes, captured a row of bunkers guarding Quang Tri and moved against a second defense line Friday as fighting raged at two corners of the Que Son triangle along the central coast, field reports said.

Moving against President Nguyen Van Thieu's Sept. 19 deadline for the recapture of Quang Tri, the airborne soldiers grabbed the front row of the awesome bunker complex and pursued withdrawing defenders into the second line.

The attack was urged by South Vietnamese marines, who said they could not recapture the walled Quang Tri Citadel while Communist troops in the bunkers a mile behind them continued to call in accurate artillery fire, UPI correspondent Barney Seibert reported.

Third day of search for gunmen

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, V. I. (UPI) — Federal marshals, FBI agents and police fanned through the St. Croix rain forest Friday in the third day of a search for a band of masked gunmen who murdered eight and injured seven at a plush golf course near here.

Virgin Island authorities said they expected to identify before Saturday the five to seven killers who attacked cocktailhour loungers at the Fountain Valley golf club Wednesday afternoon with machineguns, a shotgun and 45-caliber pistols.

Virgin Islands Attorney General Ronald Tonkin told a news conference at the club, now serving as command center for the manhunt, "we expect to have leads on the identity of the attackers by midnight."

Miss America pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Contestants from 50 states headed into their final night of Miss America pageant preliminaries Friday, in three categories that will decide who remains in the running for the 1973 crown.

Early speculation among contest observers was that Miss Wisconsin, 23-year-old Terry Anne Meeuwsen, a professional singer, had so far made one of the strongest bids for the national title.

Although the contest is generally considered to be aimed at selecting a "girl next door" type of winner who has not so far had an entertainment career, Miss Wisconsin denied that she had an unfair advantage over other entries.

'Generous' peace offer

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir offered a "very generous" peace settlement to Jordan on the eve of the Jewish New Year Friday but said Israel would never return to the pre-1967 Mideast War borders. At the same time Foreign Minister Abba Eban said it would be futile to discuss a treaty with an Egypt that supports Arab guerrilla activities.

Mrs. Meir's offer came in a newspaper interview ushering in the Jewish year 5733 which began at sundown Friday.

"Under a peace settlement, we shall be very generous with (Jordanian King) Hussein—port facilities in Gaza or Haifa, open skies to his planes and free passage across the border," Mrs. Meir said.

Hurricane Dawn stalled

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (UPI) — Hurricane Dawn stalled, dwindled in strength to a tropical storm, turned around and headed for the Outer Banks of North Carolina Friday, causing official predictions of some flooding during the night.

Dawn, which became a hurricane Thursday night, reverted back to a tropical storm less than 24 hours later when its winds fell from 75 miles per hour to between 60 and 65 miles per hour. Gale warnings were in effect at sundown from Cape Lookout, N.C., to Cape May, N.J., and swimmers were warned of possible dangerous ocean currents.

Wallace conducts business

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace conducted official business in his state Capitol office Friday for the first time since he was wounded and partially paralyzed in an assassination attempt May 15.

Patting a bulging muscle in his skinny arm, the governor said his physical therapy sessions at the executive mansion were going well. "I lift 80 pounds over my head 100 times a day," said Wallace. "It gets rough. I may try to get the therapist to cut it down to 75," he quipped.

Protestant militant threat

BELFAST (UPI) — Protestant militants Saturday underscored accusations of brutality, sadism and murder with a threat to "mass and defend the people" against British paratroopers.

"If the paratroopers are allowed to run amok again the UDA will mass and defend the people," the paramilitary Ulster Defense Association (UDA) said in a statement. "The paratroopers may shoot a lot of UDA members but they do not possess enough bullets or guts to shoot us all."

The threat and the charges—denied by the Army—came out of Thursday night's gun battles between troops and Protestant extremists in Belfast's Shankill Road area in which two men were killed.

Senate leader Mills switches to women's lib

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate leader James R. Mills, the target of heavy lobbying, reversed himself Friday and announced he will clear the way for California's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment for Women.

The San Diego Democrat abruptly abandoned his five-month hold against the controversial measure, saying in a prepared statement that he was satisfied it "will do neither much harm nor much good."

The surprise announcement seemed to assure the legislature's ratification of the proposed 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution this year. It is aimed at removing all forms of sexual discrimination between men and women.

The proposal had been bottled up in the Senate Rules Committee headed by Mills since April. He said it is now "my intention to vote to send it out of the Rules Committee when the legislature reconvenes in November."

Maria Delgado, an officer of the National Organization for Women, said all women were "completely delighted" at Mills' reversal. The organization had applied heavy pressure on the lawmaker to switch.

Mills, subject of a recall movement in his district because of his opposition to

ERA, said the proposal "seems to have chiefly symbolic significance." He said he was convinced by legal authorities that its passage "would not materially affect the legal rights of California women and men."

Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, author of an Assembly-passed ratification measure, called the switch "fantastic."

"Sen. Mills is a good politician and I knew eventually he'd come around, although his reasoning is slightly out of focus," Karabian said.

The Rules Committee had split 3-2 against the ERA. Mills had voiced concern that if approved it could wipe out hard-won protective labor laws for women and make them eligible for military draft.

"Anyone who tries to tell me to vote for a measure that would send my two small daughters off to war aren't going to get anywhere," he said earlier.

"Apparently the only real effect on Californians would be to require Congress to alter federal laws and government practices which discriminate against women," he said. "This is what Congress should have done long ago."

"Having become increasingly satisfied that the harm that could have resulted from the passage of the ERA has already been done by the courts, I see little reason to further delay action upon it."

Daily Record

LAW Enforcement Explorer Post 600 is now accepting new members. Applicants must be between the ages of 14 and 18, and must pass a background investigation, and an oral board of Explorer officers and an adult Post advisor.

All recruits that are accepted will then undergo training starting in mid September in: traffic and crowd control, penal code, criminal law, and defensive tactics. Applications are available in the Sheriff's Office in the County building at 133 South D Street in Lompoc.

MOTHERS of Lompoc Youth Football Auxiliary will hold their first general meeting Monday, 8 p.m. in Ryon Park, to plan for the fall football season, according to Judy Walker, auxiliary official. All mothers interested in youth football are encouraged to attend.

Two key issues for school board meeting

Lompoc Unified School Board will hold one of the regularly scheduled night meetings Tuesday and the trustees are bound to take a long look at two crucial items.

One is a notification from the county superintendent of schools indicating what the trustees already knew, namely that the district is operating under deficit financing, or spending more than the revenues coming in.

The other is a decline in enrollment by nearly 300 students.

In other action the trustees are expected to consider the following:

—Notification that the tax rate fell by two cents.

—A report on results of an experimental summer library program conducted by Dick Shiers at Buena Vista School.

—A report on the public use of school facilities.

—A report indicating a two per cent merit pay raise for 33 classified employees.

—Bids on purchase of instructional materials, one lawn mower and on the installation of permanent athletic field bleachers at Cabrillo High School.

Air Force wife dies

An Air Force officer's wife, Rachel Young, 27, died yesterday in Sierra Vista Hospital, San Luis Obispo, from a gunshot wound suffered last Tuesday at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Mrs. Young, wife of Capt. Leroy C. Young, died at about noon Friday or almost three days to the hour after she was brought into the VAFB Hospital for treatment of a .22 caliber gunshot wound in the head. After initial treatment the woman was transferred to the San Luis Obispo hospital for specialized treatment.

An Air Force spokesman declined comment pending completion of an investigation which he said is under way.

An investigation into the cause of death will be conducted by the Santa Barbara County Sheriff's office, but a spokesman said it would probably be Monday before the task could be undertaken.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Young leaves a small son. She lived with her family at 514 Ocean View Ave., VAFB.

UPI editors to discuss space shuttle

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The space shuttle program and the impact this $3 billion expenditure will have on the economy of California and the nation will be the central theme at this year's meeting of Southern California United Press Editors (SCUPE).

SCUPE chairman Harry Crompe, editor of the Lompoc Record, has invited defense budget oriented spokesmen from the Nixon Administration and McGovern campaign to appear as speakers Saturday noon and evening.

A full slate of activities is in preparation for the meeting Oct. 13-14 at the Alisal Ranch near Solvang. The schedule begins

Friday night with a poolside reception followed by dinner and entertainment.

Saturday morning will be left open for a tour of the nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base, scene of future space shuttle launches, golf, horseback riding and a wide choice of other activities.

After luncheon there will be a panel discussion headed by Bastian "Buz" Hello, vice president and shuttle program manager for North American Rockwell. The NAR executive will be quizzed by Marvin Miles of the Los Angeles Times, Herb Shannon of the Long Beach Independent Press Telegram and Steve LaRue of the Lompoc Record.

Police citing cars in center

Lompoc police are pinning citations to cars posted for sale and parked in Lompoc Shopping Center Parking Lot at the request of the center's merchant association.

The program has been under way for about two weeks, according to Lt. Howard Reshoft.

In each case the action was taken at the request of the association. Municipal code regulations against the abandoning of cars on public property is used for the enforcement procedure rather than provisions of the vehicle code.

Association officials and members of the Lompoc Auto Dealers Association have sought ways to abate what they regarded as an imposition on the shopping center on the one hand and as a problem with motor vehicle transfer regulations on the other.

Committee paves way for highway aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee Friday cleared for floor action a $14.2 billion highway aid bill that for the first time would permit use of roadbuilding money to buy trains and buses for mass transit systems.

Hooked on were amendments that would make another $3 billion available to states and local governments for public transport equipment; guarantee $800 million in subsidies to help operate transit systems in 1973-74, and to allot federal mass transit aid on the same 90-10 formula now used for building the interstate highway system.

The resulting package comprised both the largest federal highway program in history and the biggest federal commitment ever to the problems of public transport in crowded urban centers already suffering from auto overpopulation.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., author of the mass transit amendments that were attached to the basic highway bill by a 9-5 vote, called the action a "real turning point in our governmental philosophy" away from a heavy reliance on road-building as the chief solution to transportation woes.

The combined bill — consisting of authorization for $14.2 billion in federal aid to highways in the 1974 and 1975 fiscal years plus Williams' three-part package amending the 1970 Urban Mass Transit Act (UMTA) — was sent to the Senate floor on a 10-0 vote.

The Senate Public Works Committee approved the highway portion three weeks ago and sent it to the Banking Committee.

Bible class resumes at Bethany Church

The high school Bible class starts its fall and winter sessions at 9:30 a.m. at Bethany Lutheran Church with David Pauling as leader. The study guide will be "This We Believe."

The Sunday services are at 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. with the celebration of Holy Communion in the second service. The pastor's sermon topic is "Who Shall Teach About God's Grace in Christ?" Deut. 11, 18-21.

Sunday School sessions for all elementary grade students also meet at 9:30. Students who have not yet enrolled may still do so for this quarter.

The catechism classes, taught by the Pastor, and composed of 7th and 8th graders, has its first meeting on Monday afternoon at 4. Material for discussion is "This is the Christian Faith." The Junior Choir for grades 1-6 also meets at 4 p.m. in church.

The Pastor's adult information class meets on Tuesday evening from 7 to 8. On Monday evening the Circuit Council of pastoral and lay representatives from all congregations of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod meets at Arroyo Grande. The pastors of the Circuit have their meeting on Tuesday beginning at 9 a.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Santa Maria.

Moderator to occupy Presbyterian pulpit

Rev. Bruce E. Tjaden, campus minister at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo, and moderator of the Presbytery of Santa Barbara, will be guest minister tomorrow at the 9:30 a.m. service of worship of the First Presbyterian Church. His sermon subject will be, "And The Second Greatest..." He has served as minister to students on the San Luis Obispo campus since 1964, coming to that post from Santa Paula where he was assistant pastor.

Sunday will begin the full fall schedule of church school and adult education classes, with church school beginning at 9:30 for smaller children. Junior and senior highs, and three adult groups will meet immediately following worship. There is nursery care for infants during the morning.

Junior and Senior High youth fellowship meetings are scheduled for Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Senior highs have a weekly Bible study on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. The youth choir will meet for practice each Saturday at 3:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, September 12, the pastor, Rev. Kenneth R. Boyd, will begin a weekly Bible study. It will meet in the church at 10 a.m. All are welcome.

Children's choirs will resume their rehearsals Thursday, with two groups meeting at 6:45 p.m. The chancel choir for adults meets at 7:45 p.m.

Tomorrow Rev. Boyd will be preaching for the centennial services of worship of the First Presbyterian Church in Westminster.

Pastor Miller will attend conference

The 10:30 a.m. service at Peace Lutheran Church this Sunday will feature the celebration of Holy Communion. The sermon to be delivered by Rev. David Miller is entitled: "Eat, Drink and Be Merry." At 7 the same evening the church council will hold its first fall meeting.

Pastor Miller and his wife Ann, leave on a four day conference at Asilomar near Pacific Grove. This is the annual conference for all Lutheran pastors of the Pacific Southwest Synod. Pastor Miller will return to his office Friday.

Sharing experience offered at Chapel

The Sunday activities at Valley Chapel commence this Sunday at 9:45 a.m. with all-age Sunday School followed at 11 by the morning worship service. On this occasion Miss Betsy Nelson will be the featured soloist. The pastor Rev. David Chamberlain will preach on the subject "The History Behind the Bloodbath at Munich." This is a topical sermon centered on the tragic events which took place at the Olympics.

At 6 p.m. the church meets for prayer under the leadership of Jerry Casperson. The 7 p.m. service incorporates Holy Communion. On this occasion new members will receive the right hand of fellowship and share their testimonies.

Whispering Love, fresh from their sharing in Melodyland will sing and lead the singing. Rick Gregory will also share.

The evening sermon will center around the life of King David as the minister resumes his series on this particular Bible character.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. the pastor starts a new Bible study series entitled "On to Maturity." This looks at different areas of life in which Christian are expected to progress and become responsible.

The Ladies Inter-Faith Tuesday morning share and prayer meeting resumes after the summer break at the new time of 10 a.m. This is open to people of all faiths.

Forgive and forget is sermon advice

"How Can We Forgive and Forget?" will be the subject of the 11 a.m. sermon Sunday by Dr. W.B. Timberlake at the First Southern Baptist Church 1009 East Pine Ave.

The pastor points out that many people try to forgive but cannot forget. He will attempt to present what the Bible says about the problem.

Sunday evening at 7 the pastor will bring a sermon on the subject "How To See God."

Music for services of the church will be directed by Herb Blackmon. The choir will sing "Psalm 150" in the morning hour. At the evening service, the choir will sing "Blessed Be the Name of Jesus."

Sunday night after service there will be an ice-cream social in the fellowship hall. Goodbyes will be said to people who have been transferred or are moving to other cities.

Other activities Sunday include 9:30 a.m. Sunday school Bible classes for all ages from nursery through senior adults (547 persons are enrolled.) Training hour for church members is at 6 p.m. A new members and inquirers class will be held also at that time in the pastor's study.

Wednesday the church will meet for prayer and Bible study, graded choirs, and youth missionary groups.

The Baptist Women, a missionary organization will meet Thursday at 9:30 a.m. for study and fellowship.

Methodists welcome new members Sunday

New members will be received this Sunday as a part of the worship hour at the First United Methodist Church, 925 North F. St. Worship is at 10 a.m., with church school classes held at the same time. Classes for adults and junior high students are held at 9.

Members of the Jr. Hi UMYF will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday in Rev. Montgomery's home, 1007 North E. Place. The Senior group meets at the same time at the church.

United Methodist Men hold their monthly dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Reservations should be made Sunday. Dr.

Rod Hamer will speak and show slides on his recent trip to South America.

At 7 p.m. Tuesday the Council on Ministries will conduct its monthly programming meeting. This month it begins preparation for a 1973 budget. The pastor's service of Holy Communion and Bible Study is being changed to Wednesday evenings, beginning this week. The time remains at 7:30 p.m.

Members and friends are reminded that Sunday, Sept. 17, is date for the annual church picnic at Ryon Park. The potluck style lunch will be served at 1 o'clock. Activities for all ages will be available.

God changes lives is sermon reminder

God has touched persons' lives with power throughout history. A dramatic example of this is the prostitute Rahab. To change Rahab from a harlot to a great woman of faith was no small task. She was so transformed by her conversion, from the lowest of low in society to a renowned person, that she is mentioned twice in the New Testament. She is tomorrow's sermon subject of the Rev. Richard E. Harris at 10 o'clock service in the chapel-in-the-round of the United Church, Vandenberg Village.

Sermon title is "Rahab Changes from Harlot to Woman of Faith." The children's story is "Paul Revere's Spy System." The story draws on the pastor's recent trip East which included Old North Church of "one if by land, two if by sea" fame. Revere was a well-known craftsman of silver and pewter. In addition he was a spy against the British during the Revolution.

A free breakfast will start the day at United Church with serving at 8:30 a.m. The meal is a gift of Homer Clees, chairman, and a committee of friends.

Also on tomorrow's schedule is the beginning of junior choir rehearsals in the chapel during coffee hour. Monthly meeting of deacons and deaconesses at 11:30 a.m. The senior choir rehearses Saturday at the home of Charles and Ann Bockius, 523 S. L. St., following a potluck supper at 5.

Next Sunday, Sept. 17, is date of the annual church picnic. The potluck affair will be held at Waller Park, Santa Maria.

Deadline for the Church World Service clothing drive is Monday, Sept. 18. Members and friends are also asked to save items for the church auction to be held Oct. 7.

St. Mary's offers adult education

Registrations for adult education classes being offered at St. Mary's Episcopal Church are being received at the Church office, 209 East Central Ave.

Class offerings are: Bible study on Matthew's Gospel with the resource book "Creation Continues" by Fritz Kunkel, 9 a.m. Sundays; discussion of another Kunkel book, "In Search of Maturity" 10 a.m. - 12 noon Mondays; Tools for Creative Relationships, 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. Mondays.

Discussion of various books on healing and other gifts of the Holy Spirit after

Christians to break bread

Members and friends of First Christian Church (Disciple) will meet at 7:30 a.m. this Sunday for the monthly family fellowship breakfast at the Rib Tickler Restaurant.

Sunday School for all age groups is at 9:15 a.m. at the church facility, 1517 West College Ave.

Nursery care is furnished during the morning worship at 10:30. The Rev. William J. Denton will use "When Deep Calls to Deep" as his sermon title. Psalm 42:1-8 is his scripture text.

The choir, under the direction of Nell (Mrs.

Elmer) Bell, will resume regular weekly rehearsals immediately following the Sunday morning worship hour this week.

The general board of the church will meet Monday, September 11, at 7:30 p.m., at the church.

The Bertha Wilson Group of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening, Sept. 12, at the home of Phyllis (Mrs. Ralph) Adamson, 3979 Agena Way. The study of India and Nepal continues with Gert (Mrs. Wayne) Burmester leading; Mrs. Adamson will present the worship.

Scientist Church tells lesson topic

The text from John: "Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed", is the theme of the Bible lesson sermon entitled, "Substance", at the Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Commentary from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, includes this explanation, "Christian Science declares that Mind is substance, also that matter neither feels, suffers, nor enjoys. Hold these points strongly in view. Keep in mind the verity of being — that man is the image and likeness of God, in whom all being is painless and permanent. Remember that man's perfection is real and unimpeachable, whereas imperfection is blameworthy, unreal, and is not brought about by divine Love."

Sunday Service is at 11 a.m. in First Church of Christ Scientist, 210 South H St. The public is welcome.

Youth leader will speak at Calvary

Jim Dahl, minister of youth at Lakeside Baptist Church, Oakland, will be guest speaker in the 6 p.m. service at Calvary Baptist Church. He will also present the children's sermon in the morning service at 11. Dahl has been active in directing the summer camping program of the Northern California Baptist Conference, with which Calvary cooperates.

Pastor Wallis A. Turner will speak at the 11 a.m. service Sunday on the subject "When Life Gets Out of Control". In addition to the morning and evening services, there are varied classes for adults at the Sunday School hour, 9:45 a.m., and in Sunday School classes from nursery age up.

Your birthday by Stella

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9 — Born today, you are inclined to see things as you would wish they were rather than as they really are. Nevertheless, you are not particularly upset when reality catches up with you and you are literally forced to face issues as they are, for underneath all the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SUNDAY, September 10
VIRGO (Aug. 24 — Sept. 23) — You can accomplish your purpose this morning if you are careful to keep to a planned schedule. Don't allow outside interference.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 — Oct. 23) — Your own reserve may cause you some concern as the day wears on. This is a day when you would be wise to fight fire with fire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 — Nov. 22) — Morning worship brings you the peace you need to consider profitably the problems that have been keeping you from progressing as you should.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 — Dec. 22) — Stay in one place long enough to be found by those who would do you a favor. Don't force another to hunt for you in odd places.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 — Jan. 20) — You can make a success of your attempt to guide a member of the younger generation; all you have to do is be yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 — Feb. 19) — Keep your principal aim in the forefront of your mind. Much may occur today to distract you from your primary purpose. Attend to duty.

PISCES (Feb. 20 — March 21) — A Sunday which may require of you the kind of activity you would rather put off to a weekday. The pragmatic approach serves you well, however.

ARIES (March 22 — April 20) — You can make it possible for children to make gains that will serve them all their lives. Allow a youngster to help in the making of a decisions.

TAURUS (April 21 — May 21) — Church attendance does much to help you make up your mind about family matters. Symbols take on sudden meaning for you and bring you understanding.

GEMINI (May 22 — June 21) — Your physical surroundings have a greater bearing on your success in family affairs today than do the family members themselves. An odd situation!

CANCER (June 22 — July 23) — Set your own standards this morning — and then work to attain them throughout the day. Pass on your own high ideals to the next generation.

LEO (July 24 — Aug. 23) — Keep a careful and well-balanced plan of action up to the mark. Otherwise, you may find yourself suddenly behind the times by evening.

Pottsville gets ready to vote

'We don't treat politics lightly'

By TOM TIEDE

POTTSVILLE, Pa.—(NEA)—John O'Hara published a novel in 1955 called "Ten North Frederick" which was banned in the local library. And small wonder. The book was a kind of Peyton Place of politics, all about wheeling and dealing, all about social and sexual intercourse, m'gosh and m'golly—but what bothered the local library was that it was also about Pottsville, Pa.

About what? Pottsville, Pa. About where? About halfway between Routes 81 and 78, about 100 miles west of Philadelphia, about smack in the center of what once was "the anthracite coal capital of the nation."

O'Hara was born here. Here where the streets go two ways: "up and down." Here where the town chimes ring the end of the shopping day for women in pin curlers. Here where the policemen wear American flags on their shoulders, where jaywalking is a punishable offense, where signs in the business district warn sternly against loitering and where, as O'Hara wrote, all of these quiet things can be deceiving.

The local librarian may not agree, but Pottsville, Pa., is flesh and blood. It's not New York, but it's not just women in pin curlers either. "O'Hara was right," says one of the boys in the Shamrock Bar. "The town may be small, but it ain't grown over. Lots goes on here. Lots a people are sleeping with lots a people they ain't suppose to. Lots a the money boys doing lots a things they ain't suppose to. And politics? Hell, man, we got lots a politics here."

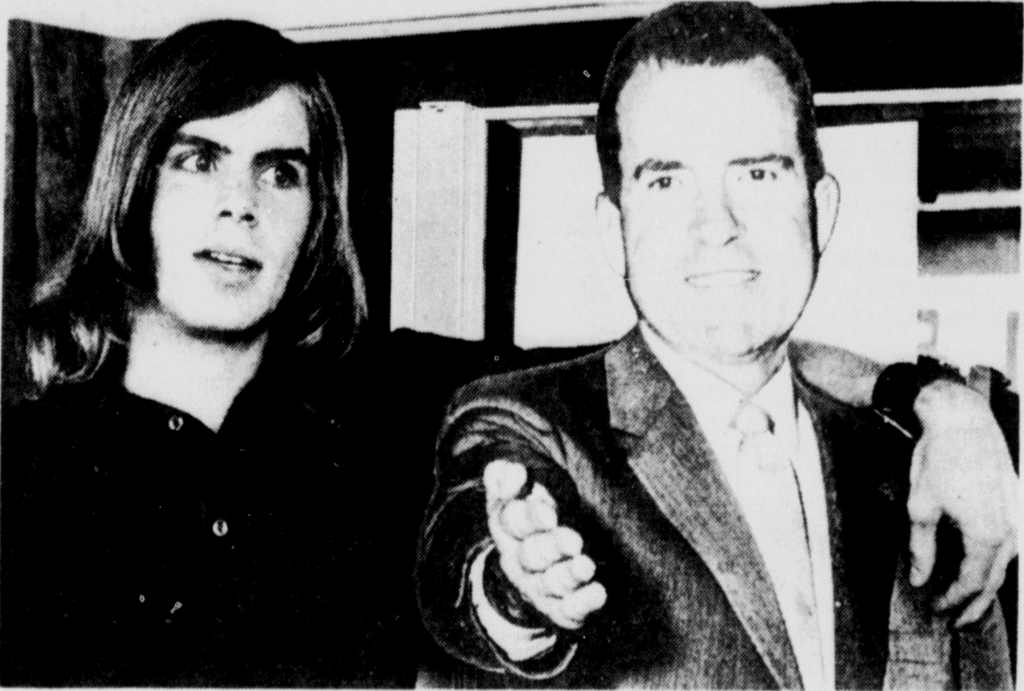

Indeed, indeed, there are lots of politics in Pottsville. This is a workingman's town, a union town, a town that believes the thickness of its bacon is determined by the benevolence of its office holders. "When the Republicans are in," says retired miner Ellsworth ("Don't call me Ellsworth") Walters, "the working stiffs don't have anything. Now the Democrats, they ain't a hell of a lot better. Personally, I don't trust any of them much; I say they're all a little crooked."

And so it is here now, in the autumn of '72, the people of Pottsville, saints and sinners, warily gear up to vote for the next president of the United States. The primaries have passed. The conventions are history. It's Richard Nixon vs. George McGovern. Who will Pottsville pick? It's too early to tell. But, as John O'Hara has pointed out, Pottsvillians are not hicks. And, as Ellsworth Walters has testified, all candidates are suspicious. Thus the nation can believe that here is one community, at least, which will go about its selection the way it should: carefully.

Pottsville, Pa. Pop.: about 20,000. Founded by John Potts, Incorporated, 1828. Once a coal mining community, now depending on light industries. The average age of the citizens, 36.2, is slightly above the national average. The town is composed of mostly second and third generation immigrants, German, Irish, Polish, etc. Nick Riddle, a local black man, was the first soldier wounded in the Civil War. The county courthouse on Laurel Boulevard is reputed to be the last stopping place for a number of Irish coal unionists (they were hung) known as the Molly Maguires.

"We don't treat politics lightly here," says Earl Tropp, 57, owner of the Towne Camera shop. "What was that you wanted? 35mm? Black and white? Well, like I said, we don't treat politics lightly. We learn the game young. We see the cheating at the polls. We see the drones we get in office. No, we don't treat it lightly. Myself, I've been reading what the candidates have been saying. I don't like McGovern; he's for welfare and I'm not a believer in welfare—if you put mice in a pen, give them food and water, clean up after them, do everything for them, all you do is shorten their lives. I don't know too much about Nixon; except he's good at double talking. But, actu-

On the right by William Buckley

Attica, a year later

Attica. I do not doubt that passions rage, and bitterness festers, that there is inexhaustible loneliness and despair among the prisoners in Attica as they approach the first anniversary of the uprising that scarred September of last year. But it is not palpable.

There is a new administration at Attica, half the inmates have been sent elsewhere (necessarily; two block areas were all but destroyed), and some of the known troublemakers are segregated. It has the appearance of a relaxed community — a spent community is perhaps a better way to put it, a year after four ritual executions (of one guard and three inmates, by other inmates), and the killing of eleven guards and 32 prisoners by the state troopers dispatched to return control of the prison to the authorities.

But Attica is strangely different from what one's imagination anticipated. To begin with it is not an old, but relatively new prison, built during the '20s. The inmates are not herded together four or more to a cell — the cells are individual. The visiting room (this is a post-riot innovation) is unscreened, so that prisoners can talk face to face with their visitors (to be sure submitting, after the visitors have left, to a thorough physical search). The refectory is clean and airy, the chapel (where a Black Muslim service was going on at noon during the day I visited) readily accessible, the guards and administrative personnel for the most, apparently relaxed.

It requires treading the quarters destroyed by wanton fire, and staring into the E compound, just this side of the handball court, where the hostages were kept, blindfolded much of the time; or passing one's eyes over the evanescent scars of a trench into which (it had been rumored) the prisoners intended to douse gasoline-soaked hostages if they did not get their demands, to recognize that one is strolling by what only a year ago was holocaust.

The bitterness is most keen, one gathers, among the residents of the little town of Attica. Everyone there either suffered a death in his own family, or knew well a family that suffered death. What they cannot understand is what is going on with the so-called Fischer investigation, New York State's prosecutorial inquiry which, it was widely expected, would have led months and months ago to indictments lodged against the principal malefactors.

No one doubts that a guard and three inmates were murdered. Who did it? And what about the kidnappers, who threatened death to the hostages; whose intransigence was directly responsible for 44 deaths?

Who are they? Everyone grants the difficulty in getting prisoners to talk. But there were highly conspicuous leaders of the insurrection — where are they? Why have they not been brought to trial? One learns from the patient, experienced new superintendent, Ernest Montanye, that for all he knows some of these men are walking the streets, having served out their sentences.

There is a creeping suspicion among Atticans that somebody in Albany is engaged in granting, de facto, the amnesty, the refusal of which by Nelson Rockefeller last September brought on the bloody showdown.

Everybody is afraid of everything. There is no "solution" to Attican impasses, but one suggested reform — super-maximum security prison (they call it a "maxi-maxi") somewhere in the state, to which the chronic troublemakers would be sent — was turned down by the legislature, for fear that it would look like a black concentration camp (the superintendent assures me it would not have). Legislatures are always afraid of taking measures which might subsequently appear to have been racist in motivation. If (let us imagine) a new law were enacted stiffening penalties against extortionists, and under that law 100 American-Italians were picked up the following week, there would be a howl against the "anti-Italian law." This is nonsense of course; but much of Democratic politics yields to nonsense.

The actual running of a prison threatens, under recent court decision, to become something of a judicial rather than an administrative matter, so that internal discipline is not sure-footed and the authorities cannot dispatch for any length of time even to the local maxi-maxi chronic offenders without having to satisfy the lawyers.

The anniversary is on September 13. No doubt it will catalyze dormant emotions. The long silence of the Fischer Commission may well prove counterproductive, stimulating bitterness in the non-prison population, and prolonging the suspense among the prisoners. Always one is reminded how necessary it is that justice be summary.

Dear Abby

Husband is a chronic liar

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 10 years to a man who has told some of the most outrageous lies I've ever heard. We have an 8-year-old son.

Before we were married, John used to tell some tall tales, but I thought he was just trying to impress me. I told him I loved him for what he was, and he didn't have to make up any lies. He promised he'd stop, but I still catch him lying to me. Heaven only knows what he says when I'm not around.

Last week a friend of ours died. I wasn't able to go to the wake, so John went alone. Yesterday when I called on the family they told me they were so sorry that my husband has spent the last three weeks in the hospital being built up for surgery! I almost fell off my chair but said nothing.

When I got home I asked John why he had made up that story, and he said he was ashamed because he hadn't gotten around to visit his friend when he was sick. I told him he would have been better off not to have made any excuses. Abby, I just can't live with a man who lies, but I can't leave him because of our son. Is lying an illness and can it be cured?

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Lying is an "illness" only when the liar can't distinguish facts from fiction. Your husband's lying appears to be more of a character deficiency. It's also a sign of immaturity, so perhaps if you scolded him and let him know how disappointed you were in him, he might shape up.

DEAR ABBY: How good a marriage prospect is a 45-year-old bachelor who still lives at home with his parents? He is an only child and when his parents move from one city to another, he moves with them.

I have known him for years, yet when I write to him, his mother is the one who answers my letters. She will write and say, "... says to tell you, 'blah, blah, blah,' ..." and even tho my letters to him have become more personal since he proposed marriage on the long-distance telephone, he shares my letters with his folks, and they keep telling me how much they all enjoy my letters!

Now I am informed (not consulted, but informed) that after our marriage, we will live with his parents. He is a sweet person, but he has let me know that I will either do things his way or else.

I am beginning to wonder what I am getting into. What do you think?
HAVING SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR HAVING: I suggest you have some third, fourth, and fifth thoughts about this. And when you get to six, sell!

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman who has been in love with another woman's husband for four years. We can't divorce and marry each other for all the usual reasons, but we keep telling ourselves that ours is a special thing, and we are not the same as all the others in this situation, and there will be a "someday" for us.

All the letters I have read in your column from women in this situation have been negative. They've all thought as we do, but for some reason there is never a happy ending.

Is it possible for our dreams to come true? Or are we just fooling ourselves? I would be interested in hearing from others, if indeed there are any who started off with an affair, and finally realized their "someday."

Have they really found the happiness they thought was there? Or did they find themselves in the same rut that caused their first affair?

Sign me WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: I'll ask.

DEAR ABBY: My boys club is putting on a play. Since there are no girls, some of the boys have to play girls' parts and I have the "female" lead.

I have to wear women's clothes and nylon stockings and heels. Also, a padded bra. I don't need a wig because my own hair is long, but they curl it so I will look like a girl. But what I hate the most is that I have to kiss another boy. I just can't do that, Abby! Please tell me what to do.

A WORRIED BOY

P.S.: At rehearsals I found out why girls hate brassieres.

DEAR BOY: Ask your director how to appear to be kissing the boy without really kissing him. If you keep your back to the audience, I'm sure you can fake it convincingly.

(P.S.: Break a leg! That's show biz for "good luck.")

Service news

MISS LINDA JOYCE Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Bailey of 1301 West Lime, Lompoc, has enlisted in the Marine Corps 180 day Delay in Enlistment program. The new Woman Marine also took advantage of the Guaranteed Ground Assignment Program and Qualified for the Marine Corps Administrative Specialties Program.

Miss Bailey attended San Marcos High School where she was active in Girls' Sports and Drama, and graduated from Lompoc Senior High School this year. She is presently employed as a secretary at Vandenberg Air Force Base. Miss Bailey will report for active duty in October and will undergo 8 weeks of basic training at Parris Island, South Carolina, after which she will be sent to school.

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Michael E. Cavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Cavanaugh of 1621 Calle Nueva, Lompoc, has been assigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Cavanaugh will receive specialized training as an armament systems specialist at the Technical Training Center at Keesler.

Three Vandenberg AFB airmen have received retirement certificates and medals at a ceremony here.

Maj. Gen. Salvador E. Felices, 1st Strategic Aerospace Division commander, presented the Meritorious Service Medal to CMSgt Thomas V. Starritt and the Air Force Commendation Medals to SMSgt Roger L. Vanparys and TSgt Homer D. Haigler.

Starritt received the medal for distinguishing himself in the performance of outstanding service as the maintenance superintendent of the 51st Munitions Maintenance Squadron here from March 15, 1968 to Aug. 31, 1972.

Vanparys received the first oak leaf cluster to the medal for his meritorious service as noncommissioned officer in charge of the quality control and evaluation branch of the 4392 Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron here from Feb. 22, 1972, to Aug. 31, 1972.

Haigler received the medal for meritorious service as the assistant fire chief with the fire protection branch, 4392nd Civil Engineering Squadron, here from Jan. 5, 1970, to Aug. 31, 1972.

Starritt retired after serving more than 27 years. Vanparys with more than 21 years and Haigler more than 20 years.

Gloomy Friday for US Olympians

LOMPOC RECORD

Sports News

Scott Ostler — Editor

MUNICH (UPI) —The United States Olympic Committee took two slaps on the wrist, Jim Ryun saw his dreams of a gold medal vanish when he tripped and fell, and Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett were unceremoniously booted out of the games Friday in America's gloomiest day of the 1972 Olympics.

The U.S.O.C. was reprimanded by the International Olympic Committee for the way it handled the Matthews-Collett and Rick Demont cases.

In the first, the IOC ordered Matthews and Collett, who finished 1-2 in the 400-meter dash, barred from further Olympic competition for their "insulting" behavior on the victory stand and then warned the U.S.O.C. that any further actions in violation of Rule 26, Section 1, would result in the withdrawal of medals.

The rule on which the IOC booted out Matthews and Collett, who fidgeted and talked during the playing of the American national anthem, states that an athlete "must respect Olympic conditions."

Both Americans were brought before the IOC executive board and were asked to apologize for their behavior, but both flatly refused.

"I'm not really sorry for what I did," said Matthews. "I didn't find anything I did so disgraceful."

"I can't go along with the words (of the anthem)," Collett said. "I wish they were true, but they aren't."

In the Demont case, the U.S.O.C. was blamed by the IOC for costing the youngster from San Rafael his gold medal for winning the 400-meter freestyle in Olympic record time.

Demont claimed right along the U.S.O.C. knew he took medication for an asthma condition which contained a banned drug. The U.S.O.C. claimed it notified the IOC, but IOC officials said flatly that was not true and slapped the U.S.O.C. with another warning.

As a result, Brad Cooper of Australia, who finished second to Demont, was given the gold medal and Steve Genter of Lakewood, who was third, got the silver medal. Tom McBreen of San Mateo was fourth in the event but was denied the bronze because he did not take a urine test.

On the field of action Friday, there was little to be cheerful about, and Ryun's mishap led the way of disappointing news.

Ryun, who lost out to Kip Keino in the 1,500 run at Mexico City four years ago, came to the Munich games full of confidence he would turn the tables on the sturdy Kenyan.

But it all went down the drain, and in a hurry, Friday. Running in the same trial heat as Keino, Ryun tried to work his way out of a box while running well back and, according to the official report, tripped and fell, although pictures of the race showed he might have been impeded. Naturally, Ryun, who suffered heel spike wounds, a possible sprained ankle and contusions of the throat, filed a protest but it was turned down.

Near tears, he got up off the track after his fall and finished the race, and the crowd of 80,000 gave the world record holder a warm round of applause.

Randy Williams of Compton, Preston Carrington of Wichita, Kan., and Arnie Robinson of San Diego, made it into the long jump final and George Woods of Warden, Md., Al Feuerbach of San Jose and Brian Oldfield of South Elgin, Ill., advanced to the shot put final.

The United States picked up a pair of bronze medals in yachting finals when Glen Foster of New York City was third in the Tempest class and Donald Cohan of Philadelphia was third in the Dragon class. Buddy Melges of Zenda, Wis., and his crew won a gold in the Soling class Thursday.

With one late final left on Friday's program, the United States clung to the overall medal lead 78-73 over Russia with East Germany a strong third with 56. The Russians had more golds than the Yanks, though, 34-27.

Dave Wottle of Bowling Green, Ohio, who won America's first gold medal in track and field when he took the 800 meters last week, and Robert Wheeler of Lutherville, Md., got safely through their heats of the 1,500 and into the final Monday against Keino.

"I felt real bad," said Wottle of his second place finish. "I wasn't sure of myself. I hope I feel a lot better tomorrow or it's going to be rough."

Another disappointment came in the decathlon. Russia's Nikolai Avilov won the gold medal with a world record 8,484 points with Leonid Litvinenko, also of Russia, second and Poland's Ryszard Katus third.

Little Jeff Bennett of Vinita, Okla., made a strong move in the pole vault and 1,500-meter run to move into fourth with 7,974 points.

Jeff Bannister of Los Angeles dropped out after the sixth event and Bruce Jenner of Sandy Hook, Conn., wound up back in the pack.

With one late final left on Friday's program, the United States clung to the overall medal lead 78-73 over Russia with East Germany a strong third with 56. The Russians had more golds than the Yanks, though, 34-27.

Olympics news

Spitz, Bob Hope to team up

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Olympic champion swimmer Mark Spitz will make his show business debut on a Bob Hope television special airing Oct. 5, the National Broadcasting Co. said Friday.

A spokesman said Spitz probably would do a standup comedy routine with Hope, although the final word on Spitz's role in the show is up to the writers.

It was not disclosed how much Spitz would be paid for the show and the network would not comment on the matter of Spitz's amateur standing being jeopardized.

Spitz won seven gold medals at the Munich Olympics.

Avery clarifies statement

MUNICH (UPI) — President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee said today his remark about the Rhodesian dispute during his address at Wednesday's memorial service for slain Israeli athletes was "misinterpreted."

At one point during his address concerning the attack on the Israelis by Arab terrorists, Brundage had said:

"We have had two savage attacks on these Olympics. On the Rhodesian question, we were subjected to naked political blackmail."

The reference was to the dispute over the question of Rhodesia's participation in the games. Rhodesia eventually had its invitation to compete withdrawn by the IOC after a number of African nations refused to compete if Rhodesia were included.

Brundage today issued the following statement, after his remarks Wednesday drew a protest from the national Olympic Committees of these same African nations:

"As President of the International Olympic Committee, we regret any misinterpretation of the remarks made during the solemn memorial services in the stadium yesterday.

There was not the slightest intention of linking the Rhodesian question which was purely a matter of sport with an act of terrorism universally condemned."

Winter Games protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) —At the request of Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the Senate Judiciary Committee approved Friday a bill making it a federal crime to attack or murder foreign "official guests" of the United States, including athletes at the 1976 Winter Olympics at Denver.

The bill, passed by the House a month ago, had languished in the committee until Rogers wrote Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., its chairman, asking for prompt action in view of the Arab terrorist slayings of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics on Tuesday.

The bill would make it a federal crime to murder, kidnap, harm or harass or conspire to murder any foreign official or his family. The measure was amended by the committee to add protection for any foreign visitor designated by the secretary of state, with a maximum penalty of life imprisonment on conviction.

Abolish win ceremony, say Connolly, Moore

MUNICH (UPI)—Olga Connolly, captain of the United States women's Olympic track team, and Ken Moore, a marathon runner on the men's team, said Friday the Olympic victory ceremony should be abolished.

They pointed to the trouble the Americans have had on the victory stand in the last two Olympics—the black power salute by Tommie Smith and John Carlos in 1968 and the fidgeting of Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett Thursday.

Mrs. Connolly, a five-time Olympic veteran from Culver City and Moore, a two-time Olympian from Lowell, Ore., came out in support of Matthews and Collett. So did hammer thrower George Michael Frenn of North Hollywood.

"This is another example, a prime example, of prejudice on the part of the International Olympic Committee and, certainly I would have to say, stupidity on the part of the U.S. Olympic Committee," Frenn said. "They (Matthews and Collett) certainly did not do anything that merited them being barred permanently as amateurs for the rest of their life."

Mrs. Connolly, a discus thrower, said the athletes feel the Matthews-Collett incident was not as much a demonstration as the Mexico City display.

"Those people who condemn them for the way they acted forgot those men just finished a nerve-racking race," Mrs. Connolly said. "They reflected much more easily the tensions that there are within all of us."

"I would do away with the ceremonies because it almost seems that people are appreciated more for what they behave like during the ceremonies than for what kind of human beings they are," she said.

Mrs. Connolly also suggested abolishing the medals, but Moore didn't go that far.

"Collett is an intelligent human being," Moore said. "Before the race, all the quarter-milers embraced each other and wished each other the best. Afterwards, when he was second, he showed no grief."

"He was relaxed and happy and the epitome of an Olympian," Moore said. "To me, that symbolized how things should be and that was a fitting ending right there."

"The imposition of the national anthem, whosever it was, the flags and all that sort of thing seemed to have no place, insisting on that division to where these people came from," Moore said. "as an Olympian, I found it completely out of place and I'm not alone in that."

Yaz' clout keeps Sox in first

United Press International

Carl Yastrzemski slapped a two-run homer and Luis Tiant won his seventh straight game as the Boston Red Sox beat the New York Yankees 4-2 to maintain its half-game lead in the American League East.

Tiant stopped the Yankees on four hits while running his record to 11-4. The Red Sox scored three runs in the first three innings. Luis Aparicio doubled and scored on Yastrzemski's single in the first and Yastrzemski lined his sixth homer of the year with Tommy Harper aboard in the third.

The two teams traded runs in the fifth inning as Felipe Alou doubled and scored for New York on Celerino Sanchez's single and Aparicio singled home Harper who had doubled for Boston.

In other American League action, Detroit nipped Baltimore, 2-1, Oakland tripped Texas, 6-3, Chicago won 5-1 before losing to California, 9-4, Kansas City beat Minnesota twice, 5-0 and 3-2 and Milwaukee at Cleveland was rained out.

Detroit's win the Tigers one-half game back but Baltimore slipped 2 1-2 games back and New York fell three games behind.

Detroit Gates Brown supported the two-hit pitching of Woody Fryman with a solo homer in the first inning as Detroit beat Baltimore. The Tigers' second run came in seventh inning when Jim Northrup walked, Aurelio Rodriguez singled and Ed Brinkman doubled home Northrup. Fryman walked five and struck out eight en route to his fifth victory against two losses.

John Mayberry smashed a tie-breaking two-run homer in the sixth and rookie Steve Busby, making his major league debut, stymied Minnesota on five hits after Tom Murphy scattered six hits in the opener as the Kansas City Royals swept a doubleheader from the Twins.

Mayberry's game winning homer and 17th homer of the season came with two outs in the sixth inning of the nightcap.

Murphy, 4-2, pitched the Royals' second straight shutout in the opener. Fred Patek keyed a three-run third inning with a two-run single, then scored on Amos Otis's sacrifice fly.

Mike Epstein slammed a three-run homer in the fourth inning, scored another run in the ninth with a double and went four for five at the plate to lead Oakland past Texas.

Reggie Jackson and Gene Tenace walked in the fourth with two out before Epstein blasted his 23rd homer of the year. Angel Mangual hit a pinch single to score Tenace for the A's final run in the ninth.

AT THE KICKOFF-BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER

Coast teams kickoff against cream of national grid crop

United Press International

Nobody can accuse the Pacific Eight football powers of ducking the best.

The college grid season kicks off this weekend and UCLA, USC and Cal find themselves playing what could be the nation's top three teams.

The Bruins Saturday night host Nebraska, a team in search of a third straight national title. The Bruins have installed the wishbone offense and are ready to unveil heralded running back Jim McAllister, ineligible last year, and quarterback Mark Harmon, son of Michigan's famed number 98, Tom Harmon.

Southern California calls on Arkansas Saturday night.

Mike Rae of the Trojans, no longer battling Jimmy Jones for the starting quarterback berth, was expected to throw plenty to the Trojans' super crew of receivers, headed by awesome tight end Charles Young. But the Razorbacks are dreaming of a national title with Heisman hopeful Joe Ferguson at quarterback.

California, under optimistic new head coach Mike White, had a new face at quarterback in Steve Bartkowski, a soph who looked sharp in spring practice. He beat out letterman Jay Cruze for the job. But the Bears open Saturday at highscoring Colorado, a team that dreams of beating out Nebraska for both the Big Eight and national titles.

Elsewhere, the opposition was not quite so overwhelming for coast teams.

Washington, which figures to battle USC and Stanford for the Rose Bowl, is favored to dispose of UOP and Oregon, a question-mark under new head coach Dick Enright, goes to Missouri.

Washington State calls on Kansas in a third Pac-8-Big Eight battle.

San Jose State takes on Santa Clara Saturday night in a rivalry resuming after 20 years, during most of which the Broncos didn't play football. They have rebuilt their once proud program to where they can play the likes of the Spartans.

The first annual Sickle Cell Anemia Football Classic Saturday afternoon in the Oakland Coliseum matches Prairie View A&M and small school powerhouse Hayward State.

Long Beach State, trying to push tailback Terry Metcalf into the same All-American spotlight reached by 49er cage star Ed Ratliff, goes to Western Michigan in a rough battle.

Evert loses at Forest

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Chris Evert, the 17-year-old idol of Forest Hills was routed in the semi-finals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships here today 6-4, 6-2 by 26-year-old Kerry Melville of Australia.

Kerry, known as "the other Australian" behind Margaret Court and Evonne Goolagong, achieved the vital first set break in the ninth game and took complete command of Miss Evert in the second set by forcing her to run and racing to the net for key passing shots.

Miss Evert served poorly and never achieved the lobbing touch and baseline expertise which is her trademark.

Kerry will oppose Billie Jean King in Saturday's final. Mrs. King, the defender here and reigning Wimbledon queen, reached the final round earlier in the day with a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Mrs. Court. Billie had a service break in the third game of the first set and the first game of the second set.

Margaret, the winner here in 1970, was unable to crack Mrs. King's service. All as Mrs. Court failed in her bid for a fifth U.S. title.

Mrs. K.ing, serving for the match, got off to 40-love but Margaret wrestled two points out of her. The Australian then was just wide with a forehead passing shot for match point.

Namath, Chargers unveil attacks

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Diego Chargers and New York Jets will try to unveil offenses as they meet Saturday night in the final National Football League exhibition game for both.

Joe Namath will quarterback the Jets for the first half and Bob Davis for the second. John Hadl probably will go the route for San Diego.

The Jets tallied only 87 points in their first five games and San Diego had but 90. Nevertheless, both have shown strong defenses and ball-control ability.

Defensive end Gary Philbin and tackle John Elliott probably will be rested against San Diego

Cornhuskers could repeat as top college grid team

EDITOR'S NOTE: Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma team from 1947 to 1963 won 145 games, including a still-record 47-game winning streak, tied four and lost 29 for one of college football's outstanding coaching performances. His 1955-56 Sooners were the last team to win consecutive national championships. He is now a sportscaster on the ABC-TV college football Game of the Week.

By BUD WILKINSON

As a former coach, I always preferred to be named Number 1 at the end of the season and not before. So, with this in mind, I have no intention of picking the best 1972 college football team in early fall.

Nebraska, however, has an excellent chance of winning its third straight national title, a feat no college team has ever accomplished. The pressure will be on Nebraska as every opponent will do its best to end the Cornhuskers' long winning streak.

I was fortunate to win successive national titles at Oklahoma in 1955 and 1956, and I realize the tremendous pressure facing the coaching staff and team.

There are several advantages Nebraska will have as the season begins. And the biggest one is pride. They know they can win. They have the winning attitude which is so important. If they can survive an early upset, the chances are good for another perfect season. Nebraska's opponents will hit hard in every game and this pressure will enable Nebraska to become accustomed to this type of play.

Several key players are gone from the Nebraska squad of last year, including quarterback Jerry Tagge, one of those rare individuals whose greatest attributes don't show on a computer or on the program roster. Leadership is always important but if this asset happens to be in a quarterback, then the job of coaching is so much easier.

Nebraska's toughest competition could come within the conference, Oklahoma and Colorado. The former will be played at home; the latter will be met on the road.

Oklahoma has the distinct disadvantage of playing both Nebraska and Colorado on the road. Colorado plays both of its toughest games at home, a definite asset, as any coach will admit.

Nebraska will have many challenges for the national crown. Washington and USC will be the teams to beat on the West Coast. The Texas-Arkansas game on Oct. 21 at Austin should decide the Southwest Conference title although Texas A&M will be greatly improved.

The Big Ten should have one of its best conference races in recent years with Michigan, Ohio State and Purdue the leading contenders going into the season, though Illinois and Michigan State are also quite capable of winning the crown.

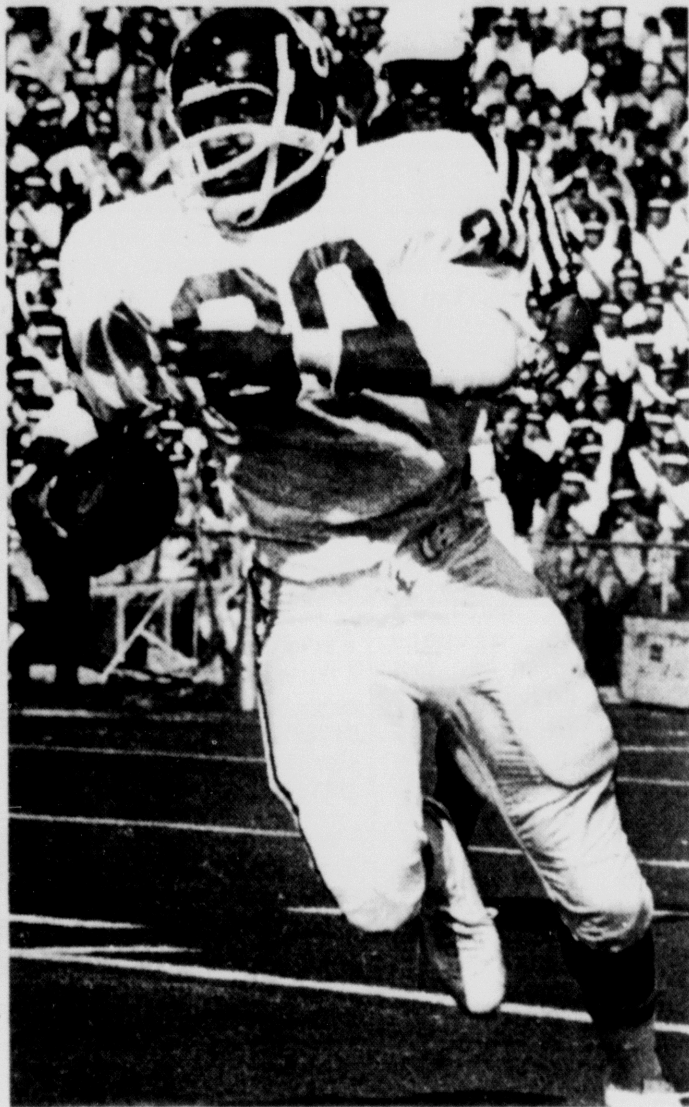

The Southeastern Conference, like the Big Ten, will have a tremendous race with five teams—LSU, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee—all having the coaching and personnel to win.

One of the big surprise teams of the 1972 season could be Maryland in the Atlantic Coast Conference, although North Carolina and Clemson are the only favorites.

Penn State is the logical choice in the East and should have no trouble in winning the Lambert Trophy for the fifth time in six years.

Many outstanding players return this fall but if I had to pick one player above the rest, it would be Rich Glover, Nebraska's middle guard. He is the best player I have ever seen at this position. His play last season against Colorado and Oklahoma was just superb. In my six years working for ABC, I can't recall showing as many replays of any lineman as much as we did last year of Glover.

Some of the outstanding players include running backs Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma, Woody Green of Arizona State, Charlie Davis of JOHNNY RODGERS of Nebraska, left, and Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma should be among college football's most exciting players again this season.

Colorado, and Jim Poulos of Georgia, wide receiver Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, maybe the most exciting player in the country, and quarterbacks Joe Ferguson of Arkansas, Gary Huff of Florida State and Sonny Sixkiller of Washington.

These players will cause the cheers because they are offensive threats. Yet, some super defensive players return, including defensive backs Brad Van Pelt of Michigan State, Jackie Wallace of Arizona and Joe Blahak of Nebraska, and linebacker Randy Gradishar of Ohio State and linemen Bud Mangrum of Colorado and Bruce Bannon of Penn State.

College football's biggest asset is that the game is always changing. New offenses. New defenses. And college coaches are more apt to gamble.

Turning sideways for forehand volley.

WINNING at weekend tennis improving your doubles game

By Tony Trabert with Joe Hyams

28. What Is the Forehand Volley?

What is the forehand volley?

The forehand volley is the only stroke in which your wrist is not in a natural position at impact. The hand should be laid back so the palm is parallel to the net.

Have a friend toss a ball to you at shoulder-height on your right side. Catch the ball and hold it in the position in which it was caught. Look at your hand. You'll see that it is laid back. There's no other way you can catch a ball with your right hand.

When making a forehand volley, turn sideways to the ball when possible and lay your hand back as though you were catching the ball. You want the racket head to be coming at the ball from slightly above with the racket face laid open, the head of the racket a little above your head.

Hit from behind the ball with a forward chopping motion because you want to impart some back spin.

The racket head should not move ahead of your wrist. The hand, laid back, remains firm in the locked position and there should be little backswing or follow-through. Just punch the ball, using the elbow for movement to help make the stroke.

Wells quits pro football

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI)—Ex-convict Warren Wells, once one of the most talented catchers of long passes in pro football, voluntarily retired Friday from the Oakland Raiders.

"Wells is conferring with his attorney about his future in football," said Al Davis, managing general partner of the Raiders.

The fleet wide receiver, who caught 11 touchdown passes in 1970, missed last season while in prison for parole violation that stemmed from his guilty plea to an attempted rape charge.

In pre-season workouts this fall, Wells, 29, appeared listless and was generally unimpressive in limited appearances in exhibition games.

Wells failed to show up for his team's daily workout Thursday and club officials said he had retired and was believed headed for Santa Monica, Calif., where his attorney and adviser, Joel Goldfarb, resides.

"Warren is tired," said head Raiders coach John Madden. "He had decided to retire and go to Southern California to work out his problems. He just wasn't ready to play professional football."

Goldfarb said, "There is nothing I can say now."

Questions and Answers About Life Insurance . . .

Q Can the so-called "fixed dollars" of life insurance ever produce a substantial investment gain?

A Indeed they can. There are few greater gains than those which occur in a life insurance policy when there is an early death and when would it be more important for benefits to be high?

HOW MUCH AND WHAT KIND of life insurance should you own? I would appreciate the opportunity to show you exactly how much and what kind of life insurance a man in your position, with your family responsibilities and your pocketbook, should own.

A close shave

by Butch McCann

MUNICH, Sept. 3. I always seem to be writing these a day late while riding on a train, which is difficult for two reasons. One, my hand shakes in rhythm with the train, and two, my poor body keeps trying to fall asleep, which it has succeeded in doing several times so far.

On top of that, I know whoever has the responsibility of translating my handwriting and making sense out of these before they are printed isn't going to appreciate these last few I've written since I keep forgetting to bring along blank paper and so I end up writing these on the backs, fronts and insides of train schedules. Perhaps, someday if I become famous or infamous in literary circles, these original manuscripts will become collectors items. Enough of egomaniacal whimsy. I shall continue.

Saturday was an easy day for us with tickets for evening boxing as our only event. (I never saw or heard from MacCooney again on track and field tickets, which I assume he was unable to get for me or if he did, was unable to contact me.)

We took the noon bus to Murnau to catch a train to Munich. Due to the fact we got a Greyhound-trained driver, we arrived in Murnau 10 minutes early and hooked up on an earlier train getting us to Munich 30 minutes quicker.

Since we had been getting back late and arising early I haven't shaved in four days. Therefore I decided to allow myself one of what I consider one of life's nicer extravagant pleasures, a barber shop shave.

I went into the underground barber shop at the main train station (Munich has a lot of underground shopping areas in the vicinity of subway stations and major street intersections). To my pleasant amazement, my personal extravagance was compounded by the fact that I was shaved by a lady barber (women's lib is everywhere).

After the shave and haircut which cost 11 marks, about $3.50, we did some more souvenir hunting and ended up at the, you guessed it, Halbrau Haus once more. Even ma is getting to like the place if dad and I don't allow ourselves to be overserved.

We made sure to leave early and stroll over to Marienplatz, location of Rathaus (city hall?) and the Marvelous Glockenspiel and chimes which play at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. during the Olympics. Normally, it only performs at 11.

It is quite a sight, especially when the knights on horseback clash and one gets tipped over backwards. Dad was so impressed he got up at 8 a.m. today to catch an earlier train while ma and I slept a couple extra hours, so he could film it at 11 a.m. because he forgot to bring along his movie camera yesterday.

After the Glockenspiel we caught the subway to Olympic Park and boxing. We saw the US lightweight lose his bout after scoring two eight-counts, but due to International Olympic rules, knockdowns don't carry much scoring weight as they do in the pros. Scoring is based on style and number of punches landed, whether or not they are effective. Those of you who witnessed the bout on TV may not agree, but I thought the decision was fair but close.

The Olympic committee on boxing has already fired some of the judges and referees for incompetance and I shall comment on that later.

Olympic champ recalls '36: 'Not so much has changed'

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

MUNICH — (NEA) — Skeletons of enormous crocodile heads lie in glass cases and greet the startled visitor as he enters the drab lobby of the Munich Zoological Institute. It is here also that another relic, a one-time proud and powerful sports symbol of Nazi Germany, works as a librarian.

Gisela Mauermayer is now 58 years old, she walks tall, though without starchiness, looks fit, smiles with pleasant blue eyes. Yet in her lined face is the weariness of her life since World War II.

Recently, in a downtown theater, she saw herself in a film about the 1936 Berlin Olympic Games. She saw herself, a mighty six-foot Aryan beauty, win the women's discus throw and better the Olympic record by an amazing 23 feet. She saw herself on the victory stand give the stiff Nazi salute as the swastika flag was raised and her national anthem played. The stadium crowd of 100,000, including Adolf Hitler, boomed with cheers.

She remembers that chilling experience as the proudest moment of her life.

"I felt I had lived up to a responsibility to my country," she said, now, sitting in a white smock at her desk. "I was very nervous before the event. I was the favorite. I felt that if I would lose I would be disgraced in the eyes of Germany."

She and her school-teacher father "were very enthusiastic about the Nazi movement." And the pressures were great for her to live up to the glorious tradition of Teutonic superiority in mind and body, as trumpeted by the Nazis then.

"I was very patriotic," she said. "Germany had lost the first World War. And for a long time we had foreign occupation. Hitler was the man who had driven them out. Millions joined the Nazi party. My father and I joined not for profit but out of idealism. Years later it was not possible to get out of the party. But I saw that the Nazis were doing evil to people who could not defend themselves—beating them in the streets—like the Jews and others who did not have leanings toward the Nazis."

By 1938, she says, she refused to join a Nazi teachers organization. She said she never gained anything by being in the party, and her only promotion as a physical education teacher in Munich during the war came because she had been an Olympic gold medal winner.

When the American forces entered Munich, they robbed her home of her athletic trophies, and her gold medal. She and her father were kicked out of their teaching positions because of their Nazi affiliation.

"I tried next to regain my life," she said. She first got a job "as a simple worker" planting vegetables in a garden. Later, she made little dolls' houses and sold them herself. In 1947 she was summoned to a postwar trial, with many others.

"It was to classify us as strong Nazis or weak Nazis," she said, with a dry smile. "I was classified a weak Nazi. I was fined 200 marks and then I was given a—how do you say, white waist coat?"

She apologized for her halting English, and thumbed through an English-German dictionary on her desk. Then she said brightly: "a clean slate."

She was allowed to enter the University of Munich, where she received a doctor's degree by studying the longevity of bees. In 1954 she became librarian of the Zoological Institute.

She lives now in the same row house in Munich as she did before the war. She is a spinster and lives with her sister. She has a piano and cello in the living room and plays chamber music often. Every year, she says, she goes skiing for a fortnight. She teaches a class in gymnastics once a week. For the last two years she has been taking yoga classes. "It is relaxing, and the movements are calm—better for you after you reach the age of 50," she said.

For a time in the 1950s she was active with the female committee of the German Olympic Committee, but has dropped it because she feels the idealism of sport is fading.

from Berlin, and it was bucolic. There were little cottages in the woods for the athletes, and lakes and trees and flowers all around."

She recalls that it was a good time for the athletes and those involved were not very much aware of the propagandizing and the military displays and jackboots clicking through the streets. "I was not so conscious of Hitler and his crew," she said, "until I won the gold medal and we shook hands in a back room a half hour later. He said to me, 'Wonderful performance.' It was exciting."

Fraulein Mauermayer attended the 1952 games in Helsinki as the supervisor for a group of high school scholars from Germany, and she says that was the only Olympics she has known about in which there were "no politics, only pure sport."

She said that the 1956 Melbourne games, 1960 Rome games and the 1964 Tokyo games were all designed mostly to gain money for those cities. The 1948 London games refused on political grounds to allow athletes from the nations that lost World War II. The Mexico City games saw the students rebel in the streets and some black athletes demonstrate. She is sorry for a recurrence of political and racial problems at the Munich games.

"It is still politics in the games," she said. "I am so sorry for it. I am sorry for the

ally, I wish George Wallace was running again."

Tropp, assuredly, speaks for many of Pottsville's 12,030 eligible voters (6,272 of whom are Republicans, 5,758 Democrats). That is to say, he's undecided. In an opinion poll taken recently in various sections of town, 100 people were asked their preferences; 27 voted Nixon, 22 McGovern, and 51 either had no preference, said they were voting for somebody like Bugs Bunny, or told the poll-taker to drop dead.

The poll is not surprising.
Nor is it, perhaps, reliable.
The people of Pottsville can be waggish. "Did you know,"
offered one fellow polled,
"that there are three towns in Pennsylvania named after Potts' Pottsville, Pottstown
—and, yuk, yuk, Chambersburg.
